nost brilliantly illuminated streets, if not the most brilliantly illuminated thoroughfare in Washington, when the plans announced today by Walter C. Al-en, electrical engineer for the District, are carried into effect,
"The existing seventy-eight inclosed are lamps," says Mr. Allen in a letter to Issac Gans, chairman of the Retail Merchants' Association committee on illumination of Pennsylvania avenue, "are to be replaced by 150 arc lamps." The candlepower will be increased, according to Mr. Allen's plans, from 700 candlepower to 1,500 candlepower.

"The additional annual cost to the District for this improved lighting is estimated at about $8,000. The cost of the posts, which are to be purchased by the District, is about $10,000."

According to the specification of the are carried into effect. According to the specification of the District's electrical expert, the arc lamps are to be inclosed in a twenty-two-inch sphere of glass. The design for the post and the top was done by Hornblower & Marshall, local archi-

A small lot of Capital Traction sold at 120. Washington Gas was slow, but ont weak. And odd lot sold at 84 3-4; Steamboat at 198, and Lanston, 86. It was really a better bond thn a stock market, the lower prices developed the earlier days of the week having attracted investors seeking employment of cash. Gas 5's sold to the extent of $11,000 face value, advancing from 108 1-4 to 108 1-2. Potomac first 5's, a high grade bond, 105; Consolidated 5's, 100 7-8, and Railway 4's, a small bond at 84. A small lot of Capital Traction sold bond at 84.

The trust companies of New York State increased their deposits $71,000,000 according to statement filed with the State superintendent of condition March 7, as compared with previous showing. It would seem as if this would indicate the large amount of idle capital, realized largely from liquidation, and awaiting the time for reinvestment.

The annual banquet of the District Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, to be held at Raleigh Hotel next Saturday evening will be one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

Guests will be present from Baltimore, Richmond, Philadelphia, and some from New York city.

Before the dinner the Chapter will descort the guests to Mount Vernon by special car, and then to Cabin John Bridge and through the city.

The local chapter has enjoyed a winter of great intellectual accumulation ter of great intellectual accumulation of pertinent matter and is now ripe for real entertainment. Many bank offi-cials, men higher up, will attend.

ISHADOW OF STORM ON STOCK MARKET

Railway Shares in Flood District Show Modest Losses-Undertone of List Fair.

NEW YORK, March 36.-The shadow of cyclone and flood rested on Wall Street this morning. It did not reach the proportions one might have expected from the character of the news of the day from the middle Western-South ern sections. The undertone of the market was strong, the bears, heavily short, were slow to press for advantage and probably, to this fact, the market owes ts relative strength.

With the immediate opening there was strength, then gradually the belief that the cyclone and storm damage might greatly exceed estimates even of the ira, reports, seemed to take held of first reports, seemed to the season to the seemed to the s This little group of active stocks
